

THE CONCEPT OF TAMADHHUB (FOLLOWING MADHHAB FIQH) ACCORDING TO SA'ID RAMADHAN AL-BUTHI

e-mail: m.andriebagia@gmail.com

Abstrak

Pada umumnya, pandangan para ulama mengenai ibadah menggunakan fiqh di kalangan umat Islam terbagi menjadi dua. Sebagian ulama menganggap umat Islam awam harus bertaklid kepada Imam Madhhab. Sebagian ulama melarang hal itu dan mewajibkan setiap muslim untuk berijtihad sendiri. Salah seorang ulama kontemporer, Sa'Id Ramaan al-Bumil mempunyai penjelasan lengkap akan masalah tersebut. Argumentasinya banyak tertulis dalam buku-buku dan program televisinya yang menjadi rujukan umat Islam dunia. Menurut al-Bumi, tamadhhub adalah sesuatu yang dibolehkan secara ijma' ulama. Ini karena tidak setiap muslim memiliki kemampuan untuk berijtihad terhadap permasalahan yang ia hadapi. Maka masalah ini bisa dipercayakan kepada Imam berkualifikasi yang memiliki otoritas untuk mencari hukum yang benar dari permasalahan tersebut. Maka tidak ada kewajiban bagi Muslim awam tersebut kecuali mengikuti pendapat sang Imam. Bagaimanapun, masih banyak golongan yang terlalu fanatik dan melarang praktik bermadhhab, menganggapnya sebagai bid'ah yang sesat. Padahal ini bukan waktunya untuk saling menyalahkan, tapi sekarang adalah waktunya umat Islam untuk bersatu dan berjalan bersama, melawan setiap masalah sebenarnya yang datang dari luar, dan sangat berbahaya jika diabaikan. Harapannya, setiap Muslim sadar akan masalah ini dan mulai merapatkan barisan untuk bersatu dan saling menguatkan satu sama lain.

Introduction

The history of Islamic movement stated that Muslim scholars in the second century have a merit in developing fiqh or Islamic jurisprudence. They mobilized their effort for searching the core of fiqh from the nabbi; al-Qur'an and sunna (this effort was known as ijtihad). Then there were groups who followed these scholars till emerged the term of madhhab or school of Islamic jurisprudence in next period. And there are 4 famous schools of Islamic jurisprudence still known till this era; Hanafi, Maliki, Shafi'i, and Hanbali.

After several centuries, the human effort for digging up Islamic Jurisprudence became weak. Muslims tended to follow one school and suggested the door of ijtihad had been closed.¹ The blind fanatic movement emerged. A group who followed certain of school (of Islamic Jurisprudence) claimed their school had the true view and other schools were false.²

According to this condition, there was a group tried hard to leave from school and called their followers to merely hold on the main core of Islam, al-Qur'an and sunna. Because of these points, there are several questions want to be asked such as; Is madhhab unnecessary again in this era? Is there the advantage of following certain school? and more similar questions.

¹ The wide explanation can be seen in Tarikh Tashri' (History of Islamic Law) belongs to Manna' Qamman, 2001, Published by Maktabah Wahbah, Cairo. p. 11-37 and 93-174. A book that explores the development of Islamic law (include fiqh or Islamic jurisprudence) phase by phase.

One of contemporary Muslim scholar that has deeply researched this case was Said Raman al-Bumi of Suriah". He stated the necessary of following school for Muslims. He opposed the practice of leaving school {anti-madhabism} and wrote 2 books for this case. These books are: "Anti-Madhabiyah Akhmaru Bid'atin Tuhaddidu as-Syari'ah al-Uslamiyah"⁵ which (is) the rebuttal for who denied the necessity of following school. The second book is "As-salafiyah, Marzalah Zamaniyah Mubarakah laMadhab hlilmiy"⁶, a book that explains the true meaning of Salaf and discusses a group who refused the practice of following Madhab. Al-Biimi not only wrote a book about this matter, he also discussed with one of leaders of this group to find the root of this problem. He tried to become so objective in order to be not trapped in fanatical understanding. The 'war of thought' between al-Bumi and this group became the famous discussion of this topic in the contemporary era.⁷

The meaning of madhabiyah

On his book, al-Bumi used madhabiyah or madhabism for showing the practice of a person who follow madhab. Al-Biimi used madhabiyah as the synonym of tamaddhub. It does not matter because sometimes one scholar used different terminology than other scholars {because the ⁴ His complete name is Muhammad Sa'id ibn Mulla Ramaan ibn 'Umar al-Biitizi, Al-Bumi was born in Buman (Turkey) in 1929. Al-Bumi was dead because suicide bomb attack when he gave the Tafsir lesson in Iman Mosque, Damascus, Syria on Thursday, March 21 2013. This attack was happened after two years conflict between Assad regime and his opposition. Al-Biimi passed away in 84 years old al-Biimi became a lecture in Shari'ah faculty in Damascus University since 1961. The last he worked as Professor of Islamic Fiqh in Damascus University. He preaches very often and is highly respected by many of the leading scholars in the Muslims world. He has significance influence from his position as a central figure in the Muslims scholarly establishment, writing close to 50 books that have garnered considerable critical acclaim. His books discussed about fiqh and its ustul, Philosophy, Education, Literature, and science of al-Qur'an, See Indah Wulandari, et al. Al-Buthi Gugur Saat Mengajar Tafsir. (Washington D.C.: Georgetown University: The Royal Islamic Strategic Studies Centre, 2009). p. 66.

⁵ It means 'Anti-Madhabism, the dangerous heresy threatens Islamic law'.

⁶ It means 'Salafi, the blessed period, not a school of Islamic law'.

" . f=T JI..I.>-I) cr" J~..}\$- -" ~ ..1.>-1) r)1 ~I-""

This definitions can be meant as the practice of person or who doesn't reach ijtiha*d* degree that fol*l*ows madhhab of imam mujtahid either by keeping one opinion consistently or changing to one another (depending on the condition happened then). This definition has the similar meaning with common meaning as toLd in chapter two. ALthough a~Buil gave additiona*L* condition by teLLing this practice is done consistently depending on one imam or not.

Another book that used the term of Madhhabiyah is belonging to Mani' ibn Hammad al-juhni, who wrote in a-Mausu'''ah a-Muyassarah, he defined Madhhabiyah as:

10 rIAI ~.io ,~,;, Jyi J5' cj ..~:JI ~ J ~ f <,>IJI ~I ~ Ji

~ ~ Ji .J)..Lo! f=T JI~,i. rY J~ ..}\$-)i ..1.>-1) ~I-"" ~

~..,i.....\;5" if

There is no different definition between al-Burui's and Mani's (Marini' just added 'without asking the argumentation from al-AI-Qur'an or sunnah'). It can be concluded that rnadhhabiyah according to them has also same meaning with tarnadhhub which means to follow individual who has ability to ijtihid either by holding on him forever or sometimes change to other opinion.

11 The example of it also can be found in Bidiiyatul Mujtahid of Ibn Rushdi who has own terminology for showing some terms such as he used al-Hadlth Thabit for Haditii ~a~i~, that is derived from Bukhari-Muslim while majority of scholars used muttafaq 'alaih. Many different terms were used by Ibn Rushdi while not commonly used by majority of scholars. When the Muslim is obligated to leave madhhab?

It is not absolute for every Muslim to follow rnadhhab. There are two conditions for the followers of rnadhhab to leave the opinion of their imam and not to follow it. Al-Buti stated:

- a. First condition: When a person achieves the understanding of the problem (of several problems) with rational understanding and has enough argumentations and the ability for summarizing the law of the problems. This person must follow his own opinion (ijtiluld) rather than follow his imam's opinion."
- b. Second condition: If he sees an Prophetic h}adith that is on the contrary with the opinion of imam rnadhhab who he follow and he is sure with the validity of that l)adith and its evidence of the law. So he must follow the valid *l)adTih*¹² than rnadhhab opinion. This is because all Imams of four schools had commanded their friends and pupils to make a move to valid l)adTih if it is difference from their opinions. Therefore the moving to valid l)adTih is the core of madhhab of four Imams. ¹³

Clarification of Shafi'! statement: If the H{adith is true so that is my madhhab

There was agreement reached from every famous Imam of scholar that their opinion must follow the valid l)adith. As Imam Shafi'i said his famous statement,

~.L ~ ~J.,ll ~ bl

"If the H {adlth is true so that is my madhhab."'

12 We know it by Hadfth ~a~i1]. There are several levels ofthe validity of Hadith. The Hadiths that can be used to be evidence of law came from the first and second level of the highest They are Hadlth ~ahTl] and Hadith Hasan.

13 , , '11,0< ibid ~ ~I

14 This is the famous wording that was claimed coming from Shaft). However there were several wording versions of Shafi'T's statement about the topic above, the nearest statement in which similar with it is narrated from Abu Wand Musa ibn Abl al-Jarud who said: Shaft) said:

On the other way, not every Muslim has authority to note I;tadfh that seems having a contradiction with the ijtiluld of his imam and then it must be followed. There is requirement (as stated above) for every researcher to be understood carefully to result the right conclusion of law. ¹⁵

In this point, al-Buti narrated Imam Nawawi' statement from his bookA~Majmu'which gives clarification about Shafi'l's statement as follow:

¹⁶ Jij ~ \!::~ (51) ~I JS' 01 0W... ~ ~L::;ji J1j ("S.III I..LA. j ... L) .)~'ji ~J.J ~ I..LA. til j ,o.,rl>~ ~j ~L::;ji ~.i.. I..LA. Oi .cl. A person who has competence to decide whether a I;tadlth can be practiced is he who has Mujtahid degree. And this is difficult requirement which not every person can attain it. ShafCI also told that he left many /:tadith that he know because there were conditions made leaving them is permissible (such as the I).adzth is ma-ukh or specialized not to be used). ¹⁷

The core of I;tadfh is more essential than its explicit meaning (zahir h}adit), and only mujtahid has the competence to see its core.

Al-Buti added Ibn Taimiyah's statement that there are ten requirements for leaving Imam madhhab to zhahir I;tadith. Besides that, it is permissible to the scholar to leave the practice of I;tadlth if it is not reconnoitered yet because the understanding of Islamic knowledge is wide. ¹⁸

Al-Buti argued that is the valid evidence from Islam for the permissible of taqlfd or following madhhab for who doesn' have mujtahid degree. This is the proof that the follower are permitted to choose certain madhhab that he trusted. ¹⁹

There is no prohibition for doing taqlid because it is allowed in Islam (mashrii~ according to the consensus of Muslim scholars

There are two words usually used in defining the word 'follow' in Arabic; ittiba-' and taqlzd. Al-Btiti had a notion that there is no different meaning among them.P It is based on Qur'anic verse explaining about ittiba' that expresses the meaning taqlZd, Allah said:

" ~ ~/ 01-iJ1 1 1' 1' 1' /: j ~ ~:Ül: 1 ~I -: ..U\ [r..] ~ ~I ~! L:{ ~ i;~::~S}' t:J ~i ~ j~ Gr.;JT J~j ~ ~(...: ~T ~ J H±::iL~.rQ> f±r~I,:::;I' ~r~ ~..f.., ..W,f' t..j ,~J~ r. 'e~IJ~ ,~ ~ " say, "If only we had another turn [at worldly life] so we could disassociate ourselves from them as they have disassociated themselves from us." Thus will Allah show them their deeds as regrets upon them. And they are never to emerge from the Fire. "21

By these verse al-Biiti concluded that the meaning of ittiba' is same with taqlid.²² According to al-Bufl, taqlid is following one's opinion without knowing its argumentation behind. Sometimes the follower has known the reason why he follows the certain mujtahid scholar, but he doesn't know the reason why the mujtahid follow certain evidence.²³

According to al-Ashqari, taqlid can be defined as taking one's opinion without knowing its argumentation or to return to one's opinion in which doesn't have argumentation behind. The doer of taqlid made his imam's opinion as his argument absolutely whether it is appropriated with sunnah or wrong by the verses or J: tadrths that are contradiction with it.²⁴

Opposite with al-Bumi's opinion, al-Ashqari sees that the inviting for taqlid is danger invitation. It can invite Muslim to the stagnancy of Islamic thinking. It makes people stupid without any effort to understand Islamic law. 25

Al-Buti gave three reasons why taqlid or following one's opinion is allowed in Islam, especially for who doesn't have ability to do ijtihad.

a. First reason:

Allah said in al-Qur'an :

And We sent not before you except men to whom we revealed [our message]. So ask the People of the message if you do not know.²⁶

The common scholars have agreed that this verse is command for who does not know the law or its argumentation to follow who knows about it. The scholars of u-ul made this verse as first support that a~'ami must follow mujtahid who has knowledge."

The similar verse discussed about this argumentation can be seen in at-Taubah. 122 as follow:

And it is not for the believers to go forth [to battle] all at once. For there should separate from every division of them a group [remaining] to obtain understanding in the religion and warn their people when they return to them that they might be cautious.

In fact, Allah has forbidden humans to go to the field of war and jihad entirely. There must be one of them who stay and learn the knowledge until when they come home they found who is able to show them about their religion and Allah's law, and teach them whether the thing is forbidden or allowed. 28

Another scholar discusses about the concept of taqlid, Taqi Uthmani, He showed other Qur'anic verses related to the concept of taqlid as follow:

- 1) Al-Nisa': 59
"O you who believe! Follow Allah; follow the Messenger and those of authority (Amr) amongst you."29
- 2) Al-Nisa': 83
"And when there comes to them a matter concerning (public) safety or fear, they relay it. If they had only referred it to the Messenger and to those of authority (Amr), those who can investigate and extract (information) among them would know (the rumor's validity) "30

Those verses show that Allah commanded Muslims to follow, obey and entrust their matter to Him, His prophet and their leader, not to be individual and make own way and separate from their leader. (Al-Buti also gave the evidence from prophetic J: tadrth that shows every Muslim must follow their imam in order to be safe from the badness. It's narrated from Bukhari and Muslim by link of Hudaidah ibn al-Yaman that he said:

The people asked The Prophet about goodness and I asked him about the badness, because of fear that it will suffer me. I asked: "O .. the Prophet of Allah, we were in jahiliyah and bad life, then Allah give us this goodness (Islam). Will after this goodness come badness (again)?" The Prophet said: "Yes." I asked, "Will after the badness come the goodness?" He said, "Yes, but there will be *dakhan*³¹ in it." I asked, "What is dakhan in it?" He answer, "A group of people who doesn't use my guidance, you will know about them and refuse." I asked again, "Will after this goodness come the badness?" He answered, "Yes, there are people who invite to the doors of jahanam. The people who accept their invitation will they plunge into it." I said, "Please, tell their characteristics for us, O the Prophet of Allah!" He said, "They are from our group and speak with our language." I asked, "What will you order to us if it bear down upon us?" He said, "Hold on the jama'ah (community) of Muslims and their imam."³¹

This I-Jadlth show that every Muslim must follow his Irruim and holds on the community of Muslims. It means forbidden to make own ijtihad without following IIIIlim especially if he has not capability to be Mujtahid. This is on contradiction with Salafi's opinion that every Muslim must make own ijtihad and following IIIIlim's opinion is heresy.

h. Second reason:

It comes from *ijrrui*³³ of the Prophet's Companions. It is truly that the understanding of Islam belonging to Prophet's Companions was different one another. And not everyone of them are Ahlu Fatwii or able to give fatwii. This was Ibn Khaldun said: There was no religion (understanding) taken from all of them."

³¹ Dakhan -as explained by Ibn Hajar al-Asqalani in Fathul Bari- has several meaning: malice, calumny and broken in heart Other said it is same with dukhan (smoke) that connotatively means chaotic that covers as smoke that becomes pollution. See the translator note in Al-Bouty. Menampar Propaganda "Kembali Kepada Our'an". op.cit: p. 196.

³² \yy_ \y,,\ .Opcit .p.
³³ Consensus of opinion
³⁴ Opcit P, 98

While it was mujtahid in their circle but the number of them were little. It's different with the number of followers who need fatwii who were in great quantities. The *mufti*³⁵ in this era did not teach the law with explaining the argumentation behind to the *mustafti*³⁶. The Prophet (peace be upon him) his self sent the faqih from his companions to the place where its people didn't know about Islam, its 'aqidah and the conviction of its pillars. So this people follow everything what fdqih delivered from acts, worships, relationships and transaction, haliil and hariim. Sometimes he found the problem which is not explained in al-Qur'an and Sunnah, then he made the ijthiid and gave it to them and they followed it.

Al-Buti narrated al-Ghazali's writing in his book a~Mustacfd in the chapter Taqlid and Istiftii that the obligation of al-'iimi is to follow (taqlid) the ijthiid. The reason of it is ijrrui of the Prophet's Companions. They gave the fatwii to lay Muslims and didn't command them to attain the ijthiid degree."

Al-Buti also gave al-Amidi's statement on his book a~Ihkiim (3/ 171) that said:

"It had been ijma' that common people in the Companions and Tabi'un era -before the emerging people who are dispute in opinions- always asked fatwa to mujtahids and follow them in laws of shar'i. The scholars immediately answered their question without telling its argumentation. Nobody denied it. Then, this matter became ijma' that common people are allowed to follow mujtahid."³⁸

The famous companions who were trusted to give fatwii in this era were a~Khulafa al-Arba'ah (Abu Bakr, 'Urnar, Uthman and 'Ali) , Abdullah Ibn Mas'ud, Abu Musa al-Ash'ari, Muadh ibn Jabal, Ubay ibn Ka'b, Zaid ibn Thabit. The area of ijthiid had been extended in the ta'biun period. Each of the Muslims followed the ijthiid of Prophet's Companions. Despite of it, the ijthiid pattern on this period sourced to two major schools: Madhhab Ahlu a~Ra'yi and *Madhhab Ahlu al-*Sadith. Every madhhab has own scholars and sometimes discussion between these scholars culminated in conflict. Eventhough, the lay Muslims who follow their opinion didn't feel this conflict without denying one another.³⁹

c. Third reason:

Al-Buti stated the rational reason can be seen in what al-'Allamah Abdullah Darraz.

" ... the rational argument is if an individual who doesn't have ability to madhhab faces with far'iyah case, (there are two possibilities will be done), sometimes gives its law without any foundation at all. And this is wrong according to ijrnd' and sometimes gives its law based on researching the evidence that explained its law or by raqLfd. The first (researching his self) is forbidden because in that case this man -have broken his right (who doesn't have ability to madhhab) and other right- was never able research the evidences of many cases. He is busy with his livelihood, (research the evidences of many cases) can make him leaving his profession and work, breaking the world because of ignoring work field and his inherit, and the principal, leaving his self from taqLfd. That is very difficult (to be happened) ... That's why the enough action is raqlzd and that must be done to do the obligation."⁴⁰

It means if a Muslim doesn't have ability to ijtihad and there happens the incident which is categorized as far'iyah' or branch matter (not principal matter, and includes the dispute matter among consensus of scholars). And the process of concluding the law is difficult for him, then the last choice he cannot do but taqLtd.

There is no prohibition for Muslims to follow certain madhhab
Al-Buti reaffirmed that the obligation of lay Muslims who don't have knowledge about ijtihad is taqlid or to follow mujtahid's opinion. This command clearly has been stated in Al-Qur' an :

And We sent not before you, [O Muhammad], except men to wlwm We revealed [the message], so ask the people of the message if you do not know.⁴¹

A non-mujtahid Muslim is obligated to follow mujtahid in everything he doesn't understand about its basic argumentation. This command is obligated without any requirement among these: the obligation to change the Imam or to keep one Imam forever.^f

As addition of that, Taqi Uthmani narrated what Ibn Khaldun wrote in his book about taqLtd, he said:

"The taqlfd of four Imams became popular throughout Muslim cities and the raqlzd of other scholars was forsaken. The doors of diverse opinions were closed were closed because so many academic terms were being used to denote so many different concepts and because it had become so difficult to reach the stage of a mujrahid. There was the apprehension that the title of mujrahid be attributed to one who was not worthy, or someone who is inauthentic (and cannot be trusted) in his opinion and in his religious practice. Scholars declared that attaining the stage of a mujrahid was not possible and restricted people to follow a particular imam. They prevented people from following imams alternately as this was tantamount to playing (with Islam)."⁴³

The forbidden tamadhhub to be done

For discussing what Tamadhhub that is forbidden to be done by Muslims, al-Buti had explained there were three undisputed principles (umur lti khilitif Jiha) by the consensus of 'ulama (Muslims scholars) and had been written in their books. The statements of Imam ibn al-Qavyim, 'Izzudin ibn 'Abd al-Salam, Shah al-Dahlawi and other scholars about taqlid and ijtihtid ranged about these three matters. From these matter, every Muslim is able to understand whether tamadhhub act that is forbidden or not. These agreed principles can be stated as follow:

- a. First: that an individual who follow certain madhhab (muqallid) is not obligated by shar'i to follow that madhhab continuously. No prohibition for muqallid (follower) to change to other madhhab. Muslim community have agreed that muqallid is allowed to follow Mujtahid he want, if he is able to understand madhhab and its opinions.

MuqaHid is also allowed to follow one of the four Irruims of madhhab forever. If there is statement that changing taqlfd from one madhhab to another is something bad, this is kind of bad fanaticism that deviates from Muslims agreement.t' This kind is forbidden Tamadhhub to be done.

- b. Second: When an individual is able to understand the problem deeply and its argumentations from al-Qur' an, sunnah and ijtihid methods, he must leave from taqlid. This person who his quality of science has filled the requirement and has ability to ijtihid, is forbidden to taqlid. This principle had been agreed either by scholars or Irruims of madhhab. And of course, this person is not allowed to propose Imam's opinion as superior than his ijtihid in that case (which he has seriously researched its argumentation and method. If there are group who denied from this agreement, this is blemished fanaticism phenomena that must be avoided by Muslims. That's kind of forbidden tamadhhub.
- c. Third: All four Imams are true. It means if they feel unsure with the truth of ijtihid laws that Allah wants to His-servants, their ijtihid are tolerandy accepted by Allah. Then there is no way for each Imam but to follow his ijtihid product. Therefore, when muqallid follow certain Imam of madhhab he want, is same with follow the right path. If he chooses one Imam of madhhab, he is not allowed to blame another madhhab. Because of that, Muslims scholars have made agreement that the followers of Hanafi school are allowed to pray behind Shafi'i or Maliki school, or its opposite."

Al-Ashqar also has written the negative side of tamadhhub such as many disputes, division, impairment among Muslims because some followers of madhhab who saw that their madhhab is the true one than others."

This is what happened today. Many Muslims become blind fanatics i i ll consider that praying on congregation between different madhhabs is not allowed in Islam! Then they make a number of groups of praying for different madhhab and so on in many similar cases." This invites division and hostility between Muslims community and make them hard to be united whereas the other problem like the attack of non-Islam who want to destroy the foundation of Islam was very much. This tamadhhub fanaticism is forbidden in Islam. There is no foundation can be found in shar'i. Every Muslim is obligated to avoid these actions.

Al-Buti also stated that Imam Al-Dhahabi forbid the followers of madhhab to be not fanatics for their Imams and believe that madhhab they follow is the right one. He said:

"Don't believe that your madhhab is the main madhhab and the most beloved by Allah. You never have any argumentation about that.

so the people who oppose you. Eventhough all Im.ams are best. Two rewards for their true opinion of case, and one reward for the false.

For solving this problem, a contemporary scholar Y usuf Al-Qarawi gives suggestions in order to unite every Muslims in one movement, they are: ⁴⁹

1. Seing the statement, not who states it.
2. Admitting self default and recanting opinion bravely and unreservedly.
3. Not embittering about other critics.
4. Self introspection and reevaluation.
5. Asking advice and valuation from other.
6. Recanting self opinion which is included branch matter to hold the unity of Muslims community.
7. Taking benefit (science, good act, result of research) from other.

Conclusion

According to al-Buti tamadhhub is something allowed by ijma' (consensus of Muslims scholars). It is because not every Muslim is able to make his own ijtihad for every problem he faced. Thus, this can be entrusted to the qualified imam who has the authority to take essence of law from that problem. So there is no obligation for him except follow imam's opinion.

Al-Buti also emphasizes that the essence of problematic matter of tamadhhub had been solved by scholars and imams of madhhab. They had built the standard foundation till every Muslim only needs to develop this building to be relevant and contextual with the condition in this era. Many contemporary problems were faced by Muslims over the world must be solved immediately. And the scholars and imams of madhhab had given the guideline to solve these problems.

Al-Buti stated that the dangerous problems come to the Muslims community in this modern era are: the thought of atheism, moral decadency, and secularism of religion (from its foundation). Every Muslims should think about these matters seriously.

The implementation of al-Buti's view about ijtihad must be taken place judiciously and proportionally. The contextualizing of it must be based on the social condition of Muslims community that being difference one another according to their place live in. This is in order to avoid from crash and division that emerge because group fanaticism that views rigidly different opinion came from other group. Walla.u a 'lam.
